What were supposed to be northern troops to the number of 80,000 in the neighborhood of Wuhu, up the Yangtze river from Nanking, are not northerners but contingents of the Second, Fourth, Seventh, Eighth, Thirty-seventh and Fortieth divisions of the nationalists (Cantonese), heretofore regarded as neutral or uncertain as between the Hankow and Nanking governments.

Most of these troops are proceeding down the river to Nanking, but 'it has not been determined whether they are on their way to join or attack Chiang Kal-Shek, commander of the moderate section of the Cantonese.

Chiang has issued a last call on Hankow, urging those in favor of the Nanking government to join him without delay, and developments are being watched closely by both sides.

Four columns of nationalists are on their way to Canton, which recently declared its independence of both the Hankow and Nanking governments. In this connection advices from Kiukiang, Kiangsi province, say that 5,000 troops arrived there the last two days and more are en route from the upper river points. These troops are considered favorable to Gen, Chiang.

In the meantime troops are on the move from Nanking in the direction of Chinkiang, ready to advance across the river on Yangchow, if Sun Chuan fails to surrender.

Nothing has been heard for two days of Gen. Chiang's western army which was reported to be advancing in Succhowfu from Linhwalkwan, Anhwel province. Considerable forces are also on the move in Honan.

The North China Dally News publishes a dispatch from Kiukiang that the foreign cometery there has been descerated by nationalist troops. Tombstones were pushed over and broken and much marble was stolen.

From Hankow comes word of continued tension and a state of agitation owing to the radical campaign in that city.

A great fleet of foreign warships is lying off Hankow ready for trouble which is continually being predicted. Forty-five gunboats were stationed in the Yangtze today with their guns trained on the city.

While on the surface Hankow is quiet, there is much tension and rumors persist that the British are planning to retake the concession. A great deal of looting is reported. It is stated that at Hankow, as well as at Nanking, isled pieces are being moved to selected positions outside the native city.

It is a national problem and must be solved nationally and vigorously."

At last-the health of the sun through your windows!

Tests show that children who live behind Vita glass grow faster and are health-ier than children who live behind ordinary glass.

Apartment dwellers usually live an indoor life. Yet sun-health can pour into city windows unchecked if they are paned with Vila glass. Employees who work in offices glazed with Vita glass feel better and work better. And management finds fewer absences.

A new discovery-Vita glass-transmits the vital ultra-violet rays which are kept out by ordinary glass

Most of us literally starve for sunlight, because of the glass behind which we spend nine-tenths of our lives. Ordinary glass or plate glass robs daylight of its enormous health value. The vital ultraviolet rays cannot pass through our closed windows. Scientists and physicians have known for years that people would be better off if they could live more in the sunlight. They knew, and proved by countless tests, that the vital rays of daylight have astonishing curative and tonic values.

These rays increase the red corpuscles in the blood. They help the blood absorb and utilize its phosphorus, calcium and iron.

They assist in the prevention and cure of rickets in children.

They kill germs.
They tend to produce strong-boned children, well grown and healthy.

They increase physical and mental energy

They have a tonic effect on vital functions. But the window glass and plate glass be-hind which we spend so much of our lives intercepts these vital rays. As far as the health value of sunlight is concerned, we might just as well live in bright dungeons as in our present homes, apartments, hotels, offices and factories.

Now science offers new strength and health

A new scientific discovery—Vita glass—is rapidly changing those conditions. Vita glass is not a mere substitute for window glass. It is window glass, except in one Health rays in indirect light

The vital rays of the sun are contained in ordinary daylight as well as in direct sunlight. Skyshine and light reflected from bright clouds are rich sources of them. You may sit in a cool north light and obtain their benefit if you do not sit behind glass that vitally important respect-it transmits the vital ultra-violet rays of daylight.

Vita glass is the discovery of Prof. F. E.

Lamplough, M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge. It is made in two forms—clear and translucent (cathedral). The clear glass is scarcely distinguishable from ordinary window glass. The cathedral glass has wide uses:

sun parlors, upper panes of windows, bath-rooms, sunbath rooms, skylights, and for decorative purposes. It costs slightly less than the clear Vita glass and it transmits fully as much visible light and ultra-violet

Both glasses are supplied cut to exact specifications, ready to install. Their cost is so low that it is unreasonable to be without the health them. out the health they afford.

Attested by eminent authorities

The high transmission of ultra-violet rays by Vita glass is beyond question. Its qualities are attested by men of unimpeachable authority and eminence, including Prof. Webb of Columbia University, Dr. Brian O'Brien of Perrysburg and by the Bureau of Standards at Washington.

The actual effect of Vita glass on health has been tested during the past two years in England. The results have been astonishing.

Ask your physician about the value of ultra-violet rays and get his opinion of Vita glass. In this country Vita glass has already been ordered for an imposing list of hospitals, sanatoria, hotels, offices and apartments.

THE AIR FIGHTS BACK.

There is a superstition among sailors, inherited, no doubt, from the Phoenicians, who first conquered the seas, that there is a human quality in the world's liquid element. Is there not reason to believe that the air, the latest element from which man seeks to wrest the upper hand, meets his efforts with a similar form of stubbornness?

Lieut. Comdr. Noel Davis and Lieut. Stanton Hall Wooster are the latest sacrifices in the battle between man and the air, killed, ironically enough, in a 20-foot fall when their goal was to span the thousands of miles of the Atlantic between the United States and Paris at a height of a mile or more above the earth. They died, as the mother of one justly said, in the service of their country. They failed in the service of all mankind.

The highway of ether above the broad At lantic is not an easy road to find or keep. The history of the efforts that have been made to travel it is a record of the last decade, and more plentifully marked by the names of those who have failed than those who have succeeded gloriously. The astonishing fact, no doubt, is that the NC-4, Alcock and Brown, the R-34 and the American round-the-world fliers actually made the crossing.

The air has been jealous to claim for itself those whom it has conquered. In but a single instance has the Atlantic been able to obtain hold on any of those who sought to span its reaches. Hawker and Grieve, first to attempt the nonstop flight, came down 1,100 miles at sea and were rescued by a passing tramp. The others were all the victims of the inconstant quantity that they sought to master.

The most frequent cause of disaster appears to have been what might in reality be termed excess caution. Rynham and Morgan, Brackley, Gran and Kerr, Capt. Rene Fonck, and now Davis and Wooster came to grief when they sought to take the air with too heavy a load of fuel, designed as insurance against adverse winds, but in reality the cause of failure before even a start could be made.

The air still holds the odds in its battle with man over the Atlantic. Charles Clavier and Jacob Islamoff went to their death in the fall of the Fonck airplane, much as Davis and Wooster did this week. Four efforts to cross the waste of water have been successful, but a dozen attempts to connect America and Europe by air have failed without loss of life. The brave will not be daunted in continued efforts, nor will the air, but the world, which mourns the passing of those who have lost, knows that in the end man, profiting by the example of both those who have failed and succeeded, will conquer.

THE REAL FLOOD PROBLEM.

Americans, whose flood problem consists of a rain-swollen gutter, threatening a new flower a clogged downspout, are no de shocked by the evidence of what wrathful water can do, presented in the valley of the Mississippi and its contributory streams. The territory under water already totals, according to the words of those in the Hoover party. more than 10,000 square miles, an area as great as the entire State of Maryland. Sec tions equally large are threatened. New Orleans the South's largest city is sleenless because of the fear that the yellow crest, now sweeping down the river, will inundate its streets and homes.

This is the picture of today, and no one can overemphasize the horror, suffering and anxiety that the flood has caused. It is, however, only a corner of the canvas that the nation must visualize in order to grasp the magnitude of the task at hand, and the labor that must be expended both in terms of men and money to repair the damage.

It is for experts and Congress to decide what can be done to prevent a repetition of this year's disaster. The individual can de termine what is to be done to rehabilitate the land and the persons now at the mercy of the muddy torrents. The necessity for immediate relief with which the Red Cross and the government are concerned now constitutes only the first phase of the problem. Those portions of the United States blessed by nature in her gentler moods must lend a hand until the work of restoration in the flooded valleys has been completed.

It may easily be three years before order has been restored from the chaos that now exists. Homes must be rebuilt. Machinery and the other accessories of gainful labor will have to be provided so that the sufferers may once more become producers. These things can not be done in a day. Red Cross workers have the facilities and the will to carry the task to its completion, provided that they are given gen erous public support. It took more than twelve months and many millions of dollars to erase the effects of the cyclone which swept through Illinois a few years ago. Both in area and monetary value that disaster, dreadful as it appeared then, is dwarfed by the pres-

FOR PEACE IN NICARAGUA.

Steps to bring an end to hostilities in Nicaragua have been taken by Henry L. Stimson, President Coolidge's representative. Stimson has signified his willingness to confer with Dr. Juan B. Sacasa or his agents, with a view to bringing about an agreement between the conservative and liberal elements in Nicaragua. An outline of the proposed agreement indicates that Mr. Stimson will not deviate from the policy adopted by the United States government in recognizing Adolfo Diaz as constitutional president. It is proposed that Diaz shall serve for the remainder of his term; that the next election shall be held under American auspices; that there shall be immediate disarmament of both sides, and that a constabulary of 2,500 men be organized under American officers to preserve order. It is also proposed that confiscated property be restored to the owners, and that the liberals be guaranteed representation in the present government and the courts. If Sacasa is wise he will immediately treat with Mr. Stimson and the Nicaraguan government on this basis, and abandon his insane attempt to destroy constitutional government in Nicaragua. He might have succeeded before the United States sent marines to that country, but from the moment the marines landed his attempt has not only been hopeless, but has wasted many lives on both sides.

The terms as outlined are more than generous to Sacasa. He does not deserve any concessions at the hands of President Diaz, and it is only for the sake of saving life that any concessions need be offered. Sacasa went to Mexico and obtained financial and military assistance with which to set himself up in power in defiance of the constitution of his country. He made war on his fellow citizens with the help of foreign mercenaries. It was President Diaz's duty to smash Sacasa's army, and if he had been as well supplied as his antagonist he would have done so. As matters stand the Sacasa forces are badly whipped, although some of them are still in the field. Naturally, President Coolidge is extremely anxious to avoid further loss of life on either side and is also desirous of withdrawing the marines as soon as possible. For this reason, although there is no doubt that the Diaz forces can mop up the remnant of Sacasa's army, it is deemed best to bring the parties to terms.

The restoration of peace in Nicaragua should be followed by the negotiations of a definitive treaty with the United States, providing for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. Included in the treaty there must be a guarantee of the independence of Nicaragua, as in the case of Panama, in order to insure the safety of the canal. With such a treaty, revolutions would never again disturb the people of Nicaragua, and in due time their national prosperity would be enhanced by the business created by the canal. As ten years or more should be allowed for construction of the canal, the preliminaries antecedent to building should be undertaken without delay.

THE LITTLE THEATER.

Much has been heard of late of the degeneration of the stage in New York, but, if report speaks truly, things are also in a bad way in London. Here, for example, is Jerome K. Jerome, author, a long time ago, of "Three Men in a Boat," and more recently of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," who, in making an appeal for an intellectual revival in the theater, made the flat-footed declaration that at the present moment there is distinct danger of the British stage becoming a sink of sexuality. In support of his contention, he stated that, in order to be successful, every new play had to go a bit further, had to be more "daring," and "daring" used formerly to be spelt "indecent." The whole atmosphere of London is, he thinks, against art. He instanced the case of a West End theatrical manager, who told him that, as his expenses are £1,500 a week, he can not afford art. Such men have to think of their mob, and simply don't care whether a play is good or bad.

Mr. Jerome pointed out that 400 years B. C. Athens shouted their approval of Greek tragedy, and that in the spacious days of good Queen Bess the people stood throughout hot afternoons to listen to Will Shakespeare. He is anxious for a revival of play writing that will make such scenes possible again. The only way that this can be done is in Mr. Jerome's opinion, to have the theater educate its patrons, and as the big, commercial theaters can not afford to take that risk, there remains nothing but the Little theater. The Little theater is needed to keep alive the English drama. It can flourish in the prov inces, and eventually it can invade London He summarized its advantages thus:

The Little theater does not have to advertise. It does not have to engage matinee idols and low comedians at salaries to make a judge's mouth water Its heroines' dresses have not to be made by Lucille or Paquin. Good plays, good all-round acting, is all that is demanded With any sort of luck, it ought to pay its way. Art can not live on charity. I should like to see a Little theater in every town of over 40,000 souls. And it could be done. Local patriotism would surely help.

Whether this is the true solution of a prob lem that is growing in magnitude with every year remains to be seen. It requires courage to put forward the proposition. The same courage, if sustained, might insure success.

TO BUCARAMANGA BY MULE.

If any less staid and reliable authority than the Smithsonian institution had been responsible for the story of the city of Bucaramanga the public would have regarded it as a real estate promotion scheme or the filament of a vivid imagination.

That a thriving, modern city of 30,000 inhabitants, "with streets dotted with taxicabs and private autos, with shops as well stocked as those in Washington," can exist "with no highway or river to link it to the outside world" seems like a fairy story. Yet Ellsworth F. Killip, Smithsonian botanist, who has just returned from Colombia, reports that the development of the oil industry and the cultiof persons and years of time will be required | vation of coffee have produced exactly that kind | body can hear you quarrel.

Bucaramanga is by airplane or by muleback Both means are regularly employed. A German-Colombian company maintains a regular through the air and the city, which is situated on a plateau 3,000 feet above sea level, is adequately served by this means of transportation and by mule trains that occupy five days in making the journey to the Magdalena river. A railroad 65 miles long is in course of construction, but only about 25 miles have been completed thus far.

The expedition which Mr. Killip conducted into northeastern Colombia forms part of a plan for the botanical exploration of the northvestern countries of South America and is under the auspices of the New York botanical garden, the Arnold Arboretum and the Gray Herbarium of Harvard university, in association with the Smithsonian. The 7,100 numbers and 28,000 specimens brought back by Mr. Killip and his associate, Albert Smith, constitute the first botanical collection from that section of Colombia. The inhabitants of the country traversed aided and cooperated in every way with the party. In many instances public buildings were turned over to them for headquarters, as the Colombians recognize the importance of the botanical exploration of their country and are anxious for the publication of the results.

Aside from the scientific results of these ex peditions it is to be expected that the knowledge obtained will have an important bearing alike upon the future commerce of the region and in "the introduction of hitherto unknown flora into the United States as well as European countries.

NAMING FOREST TREES.

The forest service has completed a revised "check list" of the forest trees of the United States in which the fact is made known that there are 862 species in this country. When the last list was compiled 28 years ago there were listed only 604 different trees. This great variation is due to the discovery of many species not then recognized, and also to the separation of species which were not then distinguished from one another.

Ever since its creation the forest service has endeavored to standardize the common names of trees, and in this new publication each species is accompanied by a list of all the common names used in the different sections in which it is found. Not only are the trees as they are met in the forests officially named, but the lumber cut from each is to be known by these names.

"The importance in trade relations of such standardization of common names can not be overestimated," says the bulletin. "Failure to use standard common names for important timber trees and their woods has led to troublesome and expensive litigation."

Appended to the check list is a brief discussion of the principles which have been followed in selecting distinctive common names for different forest trees for the purpose of discouraging the use of ambiguous and misleading names as applied to the woods used in commerce.

The Federal Trade Commission has done much toward bringing about uniformity in this respect among the users of lumber in the making of furniture, and with this "check list" in the hands of makers and dealers there should be fewer excuses for describing the bay wood of the Gulf of Mexico as "Santo Domingo mahogany," or for calling stained birch from Wisconsin "American walnut."

ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE.

The death of Albert J. Beveridge brings to premature end a brilliant career. Nowhere will the news be received with deeper regret than in Washington, which was the scene of Mr. Beveridge's labors as a United States senator for twelve years. During that time he was extremely active in public affairs, both domestic and foreign, and his contributions to legislation were valuable and permanent. Later he took up literary labors, his most notable production being the life of John Marshall, which at once took first rank among American biographies. Mr. Beveridge's opin ions of constitutional questions in that work are often cited by the bench and in Congress.

The crowning achievement of Mr. Beveridge's career was to be his life of Abraham Lincoln. It was a stupendous task as designed the crowds that thronged the amphitheater at and partly executed by him. His researches were painstaking and exhaustive, involving much travel and study. At least four volumes were projected. Two of these had been virtually completed, bringing the story of Lincoln to the threshold of the White House. . It is feared that the most important years of Lincoln's life will hever be treated by Beveridge's pen, but perhaps his material will be available for another hand. It is a misfortune to American letters that he was not spared to complete this great work.

The delightful personal qualities of Albert Beveridge won him hosts of friends. He would have been at home in any State in the Union. His eloquence and patriotism served the country well. He worked with all his might, and no doubt overtaxed his strength in his last undertaking. The country suffers a heavy loss in the death of Albert J. Beveridge.

The people of Washington are well pleased with the assurance of Capt. Whitehurst, assistant to the engineer commissioner, that money will be forthcoming with which to replant trees on Fifteenth street, after it has been widened between I street and Massachusetts avenue. The present trees must be felled to make room for the broader roadway that is made necessary by increased traffic. Supt. Lanham's budget for trees and their care would not permit him to replant Fifteenth street, but he has indicated that he will lose no time in replanting if the necessary funds are forthcoming. It is obvious that Congress must be more liberal in its appropriation for trees if Washington streets are not to be entirely denuded in the process of widening them.

The habit of deciding quickly is just as easily acquired as any other good habit, and it not only saves time but a great deal of nervous energy. We are born to be ruled by our habits. There is no way to avoid

"Dresses Up" your heating units for Spring and Summer months

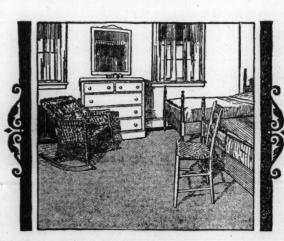

Bare radiators are unsightly necessities even in Winter time when they are in use, but during the warm Summer months they are doubly so, for somehow the people who designed them didn't seem to spare much trouble to make them "objets d'art."

But SLYKER FURNITURE has changed all this, for it transforms your radiators into handsome consoles, window seats or wall shelves, each one of which is a beautiful fixture of its kind.

At the present time the cane panel effect is a style we particularly recommend, for it seems to carry an air of refreshing charm during warm weather, but there are two other styles which are equally becoming.

Our interior decorators are only too glad to have the opportunity to tell you of the many beauties and practical features of SLYKER RADIATOR FURNITURE. Phone Main 5300.

A new standard of cleanliness -with Klearflax

Woven entirely of linen with only pure virgin flax, Klearflax rugs and carpets have a unique capacity for cleanliness.

The secret is in the weave—a special Klearflax feature. Dust and dirt cannot sift through the tightly-woven compact body and become embedded. All of the dirt remains on the surface. Suction sweeping and brushing leave Klearflax clean and bright and fresh, like new linen.

Klearflax has all of linen's color beauty, as seen in solid tones, heathers and Picwick mixtures. There is a wide choice of designs, too; handsome borders and small, all-over patterns.

There is wonderful wearing life in its thick, heavy, reversible body. It is mothproof, practically burnproof and its new linen roughness refines with use.

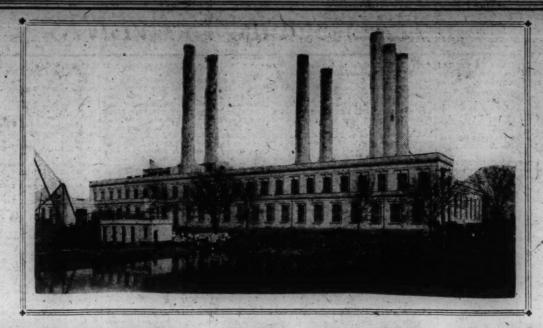

You will be delighted with Klearflax for yearround use in all rooms. It is very moderately priced; a 9 x 12 rug is only $49; carpeting, $4.10 a square yard. Let us show you the artistic and practical possibilities of Klearflax.

Alaska is a land of enchantment—an exotic country—aglow with color—brilliant flowers—weird totem poles—forests—glaciers shining in the sun—at night the flash of northern lights!

There is no more fascinating journey in all the world than the trip to Alaska!

in all the world than the trip to Alaskal Pleasure begins with the rail trip across the continent on the luxurious North Coast Limited, crack transcontinental train of the Northern Pacific. You'll enjoy the comfort of its appointments—excellent service—"famously good meals"—as you speed over the trail which Lewis and Clark blazed through the Pacific Northwest.

The trip to Seattle is a pageant of beauty. 28 mountain ranges can be seen from Northern Pacific main-line trains! There are thrilling stopovers along the way for your choosing—Yellowstone, the Wonderland of the World, or Rainier National Park are especially recommended.

piore magnetic cities—Ketchikan—Wrangell—Juneau—Cordova—Valdez—Latouche.
From Skagway, the end of the voyage to Southeastern Alaska, thrilling trips may be made through the Klondike region and to Sitka and Lake Atlin.
The Southwestern Alaska excursions to Seward, Anchorage or Kodiak include trips to the interior to see glaciers that are world marvels, and mountains that rise 20,000 feet from the sea.
The Northern Pacific offers you convenient travel service. We will make all arrangements for trips of individuals or families and our escorted tours offer freedom from travel cares. All-expense, escorted trips to Skagway require 18 days from Chicago and cost $345.36. To Seward your all-expense tour represents 26 days of pleasure and inspiration and the total cost is $394.26.
Alaskais one of life's adventures that holds a lure for all the world. Reservations for Alaskan cruises are quite limited and every summer hundreds of people, who decide too late, are disappointed in not being able to get steamer space. If you will let me help you plan your trip soon, I will guarantee to secure desirable reservations for yourself and party for the entire trip.

"It was an evening bright and still, as ever blushed on wave or bower. Smiling from heaven as if nought ill could happen in so sweet an hour." When suddenly a chilling gale came slashing from the west, and hurtling, freezing rain and hail were dashed before its crest. 'Twas winter come, thus is its way, without a warning cry it stilled the last sweet balmy day, enveloped land and sky. But all with coal bins filled in spring serenely smiled and closed the door. They were prepared for just this thing, and now rich fruit their judgment bore.

T'S fine!" Mary Hunter said, when at last I went to see her. "Fine! Why, Bab, just think how much better to have a home like that than to worry yourself to death trying to do something you think isn't menial. I never could understand why girls hate to do housework. Nothing pays so well. I don't care what it is—not for girls who haven't been trained for some particular work. You working clothes provided, and a good salary besides."

cial permission, Mrs. Hewitt expected the servants in by 10 o'clock. And I vas now her servant.

At first I often thought of what Aunt Alice would say could she know. Then, as I grew stronger—due to good food and absence from anxiety—I thought of her as being pleased. I had managed to keep some of her ideals before me, if I had lost my own. To do the best we could under all circumstances, had been one of her mottoes. God would take care of the rest. I was doing the best I could. I gave no thought to the rest, little to my future.

I wasn't always either happy or resigned. At times I resented my position, being a servant. But I would remember the days when I didn't know where my food was coming from, the long, weary days when I dragged my self from place to place to find work, and would compel myself to accept as cheerfully as I could the situation a menial occupies in any household.

Neatness was a fetish with Mrs. Hewitt. In this I could satisfy her, as it had also been one with Aunt Alice. It was my ability to please her in this respect that, I think kept me my job.

In the interest of public health.

To those who are informed this report was scarcely necessary. The best proof possible is the subsidence of glandular and bone tuberculosis, during the last ten years, in New York, Chicago and other cities. Collateral proofs are the statements by several health officers of these cities that milk-borne contagion disappeared from their jurisdictions several years ago.

There are three principal causes of underweight in growing children. One is improper or insufficient food. Another is some physical disorder, such as infected tonsils. A third is faulty habits. If you are certain that neither of the first two is the cause, you still have the third.

How are the child's habits? Does she go to bed early and sleep 9 or 10 hours quietly every night? Is she a nervous, flidgety child? Have you taught her poise? Does she play too hard or attend the movies too often? How about open-air exercise? Investigate this The common type of milk ordinance and almost 20 minutes of time, above calls for about 6 degrees of temperature, the actual requirements. This is what is known as the margin of safety in this case. North and Park—both men of broad experience—think this margin of safety ample. It is not necessary to harm the salability of the milk and to deprive the housewife of that standard which means so much to her—the cream line—in order to make the product safe.

It is a matter of common information that most of the bacteria which cause contagion are killed at even lower

DEAR Miss McDonald: For a long time I have been reading your articles and finally I have decided to bring my problem to you and get your opinion on the subject. Now, here is the problem: Several months ago I became engaged to a young man. Prior to my becoming engaged to him, he had contracted a number of debts which I insisted, of course, that he must pay before marrying me. He promised, but also in his zeal to do so he has never taken me any place. Now, I am fond of dancing, and he knows it, but he has never taken me to any dances given by a society to which he belongs and which gives dances once every month or two. He gives as his reason that he wants to pay his lebts and simply can not bother. Now, I maintain that after all if he absolutely refuses to take me there occasionally I should be allowed the privilege of accepting the invitations f some other friend of the family to attend, since I am always chaperoned by my mother anyway, and it would be perfectly proper, and it is really rather montonous staying home all the time, but he maintains a that an engaged girl should under no circumstances accept any invitations from any one. Now I am really conservative and desirous of helping the young man, but it seems most unjust to expect me to continue on this way. What is your opinion? We have agreed to be guided by your answer. Please try to answer this before April 30. Thanking you for your anticipated reply, I am, EMMA.

Bring Consideration to Shop With You.

Dear Miss anne singleton—
I am a saleslady in a large department store. I try to give my customers intelligent, courteous service, but frankly, some of them don't earn it. Would you talk to them in your column about giving us some consideration, too?

I will with pleasure; I think rude or inconsiderate conduct ought not to be encouraged on either side of the counter, but that the customer who is unreasonable and disagreeable has perhaps less excuse than a tired saleswoman. I have not often come into contact with trying customers, but I well know that they exist; that they finger over things they have no intention of buying, have garments sent home which they don't really mean to keep. (I've heard some contemptible women even wear a dress or hat for an occasion and return it, pretending it would not give more trouble to take off, tired, uncomfortable, half-crying and treily unnoticed by their elders, I have yet to see. The lift man in one shop told me that children were lost trouble, for so little result, that I wonder the shop keeps them on its books at all. The disposition to "do" some body and get something for nothing by a trick, seems to me far worse than more red-blooded offences; it is so in the contact with trying customers, but I have not often come into contact with trying customers, but I well they don't really mean to keep. (I've heard some contemptible women even wear a dress or hat for an occasion and return it, pretending it would not give mean tearns how to guard itself against the worst offenders. The latest step is the establishment

The latest step is the establishment of a central student restaurant which will correspond somewhat to the student unions of American universities. Next door to a restaurant where they can get dinner or lunch for 20 cents, the students, through their general association, are erecting a moving picture house which will be a combined lecture hall and cinema.

It is proposed to add five laboratories to the building where students may experiment without cost, providing they take their turn at giving student lectures, and to have scientific libraries.

A new cooperative library, similar to book exchanges at American universities, has been opened by the student association on the Boulevard Saint Michel, which corresponds to the center of the campus.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York April 27 (By the Associated Press).—Although the few spectacular price movements in today's curb market were largely on the upside, the general list drifted to lower levels in reflections of a gradual dwindling of outside interest. Professional traders staged occasional bullish demonstrations, but failed to attract an outside following.

side interest. Professional traders staged occasional buillsh demonstrations, but failed to attract an outside following.

Despite the fact that last year's earnings were less than $2 a share, American Cellulose common soared nearly 20 points to a record high level at 185%. Buying was based on expectations of substantially increased earnings through the development of a new insulating material from cornstalks.

Oils continued to reflect the unsettled condition of the industry which has been intensified, of late, by a further increase in crude output and the publication of unfavorable first quarter reports by some of the leading companies. Creole Syndicate, Gulf, Leonard, Lion, New Mexico & Arizona Land, Ohlo, Prairie, Standard Oil of Indiana and Tidewater all sank to new low levels for the year.

Goodyear Tire railled 2 points, but lost part of its gain despite the fact that hopes of an early increase in tire prices had been abandoned in some speculative quarters. Dominion Stores was run up four points to a new top at $4$ and moderate gains were recorded by Johns Manville, Nicholas & Shepherd and U. S. Profit-Sharing, National Baking, Neisner Bros., Safeway Stores, Union & United Tobacco and Western Maryland first preferred on the strength of large current earnings. Arizona Fower standing out by climbing nearly three points to a new Servel was active and firm on the announcement that the company had sold its Wheeler & Condenser stock for cash, that the output of gas refrigerators was now about 100 daily and that the Evansville plant was working at capacity on electrical refrigerators. Warrants originally attached to German bonds scored sharp gains, particularly German General Electric, Tietz Department Stores and Mansfield Mining.

RESIST BEARS' ATTACK

Most Oils Shares Are Under Pressure; Steels Move Quietly; Some Rails Yield.

SUGARS FAIRLY STEADY

New York, April 27.—The bears took another whirl at the stock market to-day, but on the whole did not get very far, and they had to put up a strong battle for most of the ground they gained. In the carrier division traders for the rise had much the better of the day's business, many stocks closing substantially higher. Many of the industrials also received good support and finished the day well ahead of yesterday's final prices.

With Houston Oil an exception, finishing 3% net higher, most members of the petroleum group were under pressure throughout the session. The steels moved quietly within a narrow range. General Motors was active at times, but closed, as did other members of the group, within a fraction of the opening price. The merchandising stocks were firm, coppers were soft and the sugars were fairly steady, with the exception of South Porto Rican, which gained more than 9 points, to a record high at 193%, closing at that figure and a 7½-point advance on the day.

Factors that might have been expected to depress prices were the slightly disappointing report of first-quarter earnings published by the United States Steel Corporation, the Mississippl valley flood situation, and the rather noncommittal attitude of the weekly steel trade reviews. On the sother hand, the easier tone in the call money market, the rate holding at 4 per cent, but with funds plentiful on the outside at 3½ per cent, and numerous first quarterly reports of a cheerful nature, might well have been used as pretexts for another strong atvance. Trading activity was slightly better than yeaterday, the turnover being over 2,000,000 shares.

Pressure against the oil shares, which had abated somewhat during the last two days, was applied again with the nough force to send several of them to new lows. General Asphalt was one of the principal points of attack. After stouching 82%, the common dropped stapidly to 76½, fluctuated, and finally closed at 77½, a net loss of 4½. The preferred closed with a net loss of 8 points. Some of them for ne

Rallroad equipment and farm impleament stocks were firm even during the most reactionary periods.

Another rail with sufficient speculative following to send it booming at a stimes, the Gulf, Mobile and Northern, iturned active for a while, rose several groints in short order, and closed 3½ net higher. Perhaps the stock was stimulated by Bangor, but its rise was seven more rapid while it lasted. Those who had no other explanation handy that on one which sounded plausible enough. They thought the Gulf would get a good deal of additional traffic which would have to be rerouted from the roads which follow the Mississippi too closely for comfort. One of these mentioned was the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley.

Mack Trucks showed unwonted strength and activity throughout the day. It got within ½ of its 1927 high, but backed down nearly 2 points in the late dealings and finished but a gpoint net higher. Gossip has it that Mack is being polished off for a run. Again Italian Exchange featured the foreign exchange market. Influenced by intervention of government agents on the selling side, cables declined more than 11 points to 5.25 cents, but recovered 2 points near the close. Pesetas gained 5 points, Japanese yen improved 38 points, and most other exchanges were steady to firm.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK COITON.

New York, April 27 (By A. P.),—Opening advances in the cotton market today were followed by reactions, but prices firmed up again during the afternoon on additional flood news and unfavorable Eastern belt crop advices. After selling at 15.30 early, July reacted to 15.12 and closed at 15.24, the general market closing steady at net advances of 12 to 18 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 19 points on buying promoted by unexpectedly firm Liverpool and expectedly firm Liverpool of the sand expectations of a buillish

The market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 19 points on buying promoted by unexpectedly firm Liverpool cables and expectations of a bullish weekly review of crop conditions by the weather bureau. Demand was active, but it appeared to be readily supplied on the initial advance to 15.02 for May and 15.36 for October, and prices eased off during the forenoon.

The weekly report of the weather the weekly report of the weather the weekly report of the weather than the trace of no more unfavorable than the trace of no more unfavorable than the trace of no more unfavorable as fresh buying. Probably it was fresh buying to the detailed weather reports for the day and the forecasts. At any rate railles of 6 or 3 points were followed by more or less irregularity and prices at one time were within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

May sold off to 14.90 and October to 15.39, but the afternoon market was firmer on reports that the flooded area was extending in Mississippi. There were also reports that recent low temperatures had killed some young cotton in Alabams, and that farmers were finding seed for replanting scarce. Prices recovered nearly all their losses, closing within a few points of the best for the day. No further May notices were issued today, so far as could be learned, and May contracts were relatively steady, showing an apparent difference of 25 points under July at the close, compared with 30 points at the close, compared wi

While the demand for vanadium ore subject to considerable fluctuation from year to year, it is a very important product since it is used in the production of steel of superior strength. The automobile industry is also an important consumer. It is expensive, however, to produce vanadium. The company's best year was in 1926, when per share earnings on the common stock amounted to $5.26, as common stock amounted to $5.26, as common stock amounted to $5.26, as common stock amounted to $4.729,342, whereas excellent financial condition was revealed by the fact that total current assets amounted to $4.729,342, whereas current liabilities totaled only $289,780. There are no bank loans or funded debts outstanding and no preferred issues are ahead of the capital shares. The current dividend rate of $3 per share on the capital stock was inaugurated in May, 1926. Prior to that time the only dividend payments were one of $4.50 per share in 1920 and another of $1 in 1921. In December, 1926, an extra dividend of $1 was declared.

Covey to Face Athletics Today

Rain Halts Game in New York; Crowder Also Ready.

Rice Recovering From Grippe; Judge and Goslin Hit Hard.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

EW YORK, April 27.—The Washington baseball team left this rainy and frosthitten city tonight. Philadelphia, where it is to open three-game series with the Athletics to have been feasting on the helplesses of the Boston Red Sox for the past oders.

ness of the Boston Red Sox for the past two days.

The rehabilitated Mackmen are likely to face Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie in the first game of the series tomorrow, but if the veteran spit-ball hurler does not feel fit, Manager Harris has either Alvin Crowder or George Murray ready to step up to the firing line.

The postponement of today's scheduled game with the Yankees, the second consecutive contest which has been prevented here because of the rain and cold, was a great disappointment to the Nationals in general and Pitcher Fred Marberry and Outfielders Earl McNeely and Sam West in particular.

The Washington team was keyed up over the chance of beating New today and gaining a tie for first place in the league. The rain today necessitates two double-headers when the Nationals come here again on May 27 and 28.

May 26 is an open date on the sched-le for both teams and the Nats were involved to come here a day earlier and tage one of these postponed games on his date, but the proposition did not uit Manager Miller Huggins for the eason that he has booked an exhibi-tion game then with the West Point ladets.

Cadets.

Marberry's objection is that the rain prevented him from getting the opporunity of starting a game in the box for the Nationals —a stunt he has craved to undertake ever since the season started. Pilot Harris had promised him the chance today, but with the game off, he has several regular twirlers ready now and probably will not consider Marberry as a starter until the going again gets rough in a pitching way.

il the going again gets rough in a litching way.
With Sam Rice rather weak and still I from his grippe attack either Moleely or West would have gotten the light field assignment this afternoon, he former in case a southpaw worked or the Yanks and the Birmingham ookie if an orthodox flinger had performed. With Rice likely to be back in tomorrow's game, these lads figured hemselves out of luck.

Being among the American league's "leading five" hitters cer-tainly is acting as a tonic to Messrs. "Goose" Goslin and Joseph Judge; the former has managed to crack out at least one safety in all twelve games played to date.

Judge failed to hit in one game when was not charged with any times at a bat, and in one of the Boston mes, but has been going like a "house fire" in the other battles. New York where Judge started his baseball reer and was his home town until he cided to adopt the Capital City. He ways does damage with the willow in a Yankee stadium and, on the way ck from the park after hostilities had en declared off, remarked that he is in "a particularly hitterish mood lay." was in "a particularly hitterish mood oday."

College Nines to Play 3 Games Here Today

Georgetown will play Wake Forest, Catholic university will play the University of Delaware and Gallaudet will play Blue Ridge college in baseball games on local fields today.

The feature contest will be the tilt between Georgetown and the North Carolina nine, which defeated Catholic university yesterday by a big score. Wake Forest has won five consecutive victories, numbering among its victims the strong Quantico Marine team, previously undefeated.

Pete Donohue seems to have a penchant for losing 2-to-1 ball games. The Cubs beat him by that margin in the final game of the series here today to renew as a wavering grasp on sixth place in the league. Earlier this season the Cardinals and Pirates beat him by the same score.

Rickard Convinced That Former Champion Is Still Best Man at Drawing Cash Customers: Paulino Not Accused of Being Fighter.

WAKE POREST COLLEGE'S haseball seam defeated the Catholic university nine at Brookland stadium, 14 to 2. The winners had tittle difficulty with Bonomo, Manfreda and Conlin, Cardinal pitchers, and make but four hits against Bonomo's pitching.

fornia and called on Rickard today bearing credentials from Dempsey himself, is not only a rubber, bottle holder and trainer, but a veteran of the amusement business in Paris, and is singularly well qualified to carry on the traditions and uphoid the principles established by Jack Kearns as the manager of the former champion.

Dempsey's letter informed Rickard that he had abundant confidence in M Wilson and Rickard was so impressed one way or another that he decided to deal with Dempsey direct.

Therefore he sent a long telegram to Dempsey in which he proposed a bout with Paulino on July 1 at the Yankee stadium and another one later with the winner of the Sharkey-Maloney bout, which is to be waged, if that is the correct word, on May 19, also in the Yankee stadium.

It will be seen that only one of the four fighters left in the so-called tournament has done any fighting in the tournament. That one is Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, who beat Franz Diener, Arthur De Kuh, Harry Persson and Jack Delaney. He was terrible in the affair with Delaney, but he stopped De Kuh, had Persson down and out at the final bell and gave Diener a severe mauling, so he may be said to have come through a rather tough series of trials.

Dempsey hasn't boxed since September and Paolino has been quietly shoosed through the quarter-final because he is a foreigner and what Rickard calls a colorful man. He won two decisions, one from Knute Hanson, the other by a narrow margin from Tom Heeney, two confirmed nobodies.

Dempsey has been invited to take soup with Rickard at a banquet to be spread in Rickard's honor by his numerous millionaire stock-holders on May 16 and he is ex-pected to attend. The promotion probably will receive great impetus

Tunney Bout Is Goal of Jack

Former Champion to Fight for Rickard, Trainer Declares.

Will Fight Winner of Sharkey-Maloney Match May 19.

EW YORK, April 27 (By A. P.).—
Jack Dempsey, former ruler of the heavyweight kingdom, today set aside all doubt as to his future ring activity.

Through Gus Wilson, his representative and trainer, Dempsey assured Tex Rickard that he is in perfect health again and definitely on the comeback road. To make it more emphatic and permit the "ballyhoo" to gather headway, the former champion wired the promoter he will "fight any one" in preliminary jousts to prove his right to battle again for the title
Gene Tunney captured last fall.

Dempsey's first match, Rickard indicated, will be with Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, in the Yankee stadium here about July 1. The survivor of this bout will fight the winner, of the other semifinal between Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey in the stadium May 19, with the ultimate winner opposing Tunney in September.

Rickard expects to patch up

Rickard expects to patch up Paulino's difficulties with the New York State athletic commission which suspended him Tuesday for failure to go through with a bout in Boston April 18. The Spanlard has expressed a desire to have the match arranged again against an opponent agreeable both to him and the promoters.

Wilson reported that Dempsey, after several weeks of manual labor at his mountain camp in California, has begun to box again and was confident of his ability to mow down any opposition between him and another shot at the Several doctors have pronounced Dempsey in perfect shape, Wilson said, with all traces of the blood poisoning gone from his system. Reports of injury to the base of Dempsey's spin-had been confused with a minor internal operation to remove secretions believed to have caused the blood poison attacks, he said.

The enthsiastic trainer painted an attractive picture of Dempsey, brown and rugged, and weighting about 202 pounds as he hiked through the mountains, worked with pick and shovel, and lugged rocks to harden his muscles. The best sign, he said, was the liking Dempsey showed for the grind and

Mars was a forward contender from the break and forced the pace until rounding the fas turn, where he went into she lead, and once in the lead he remained there. Mars looked best at the post and ran a smashing good race considering that it was his first effort of the season.

Jackey P. Fisher, suffered a brulsed leg as a result of the acci-dent when Reigh Olga fell in the back stretch in the opening event. He was forced to cancel his other engagements.

The division of the Harry Payne Whitney stable in charge of Freddy Hopkins will be shipped over to Pim-lice Sunday morning.

C. A. Coyle will leave for Fair-mont on Monday next with the use-ful string of platers he cam-palgned at the Maryland tracks last spring. Included in his lot are Ed-ward Gray, Sea Rocket and Mc-Tinkie.

Crusader was breezed half a mile this morning in 0.52. The big chestnut was rearing to go and was under restraint all the way. Crusader and Reminder, of the Gien Riddle farm horses, will be shipped to Belmont park on Saturday.

Scapa Flow, last year's futurity winner and one of the choices in the Kentucky derby is carded as a starter in the Saiisbury purse here tomorrow. The conditions of this race are framed to bring Preakness and Kentucky derby candidates together. There has been so much talk of Scapa Flow this spring that racegoers are quite anxious to see the colt in action. Frankie Coltiletti will ride him in his engagement tomorrow.

Lexington, Ky., April 27 (By A. P.).

An alleged bookmaker's telegraph wire inside the inclosure at the Kentucky association race track and the tap connected just outside the track were not in operation today, officials said. The entire circuit was cut yesterday after an investigation disclosed that the wire was "tapped" and in use for other purposes than that for which it was installed—a one-way wire to receive "was "tapped" and in use for other purposes than that for which it was installed—a one-way wire to receive "come back" money from bookmakers. The investigation ordered by Sewell Combs, president of the association and a member of the State racing commission, disclosed that by means of the "tap" bookmakers in Chicago, New Tyork and elsewhere were in a position to get immediate information on racea at the track in violation of the rules of the racing commission.

J. J. Emery Estate Wins Big Tax Refund

Philadelphia, April 27 (By A. P.). The United States government will be required to pay back $899.471 collected in income taxes from the estate of John J. Emery, art collector of Cincinnati and Bar Harbor, under a ruling by Judge Buffington in the Federal circuit court of appeals today.

The court ruled that an assessment of $999.471 against the gross amount of a trust fund created by the late Mr. Emery for his five children, was illegal. The assessment should have been against the individual shares of the heirs in the trust, the court ruled. The amount on the gross would be double that on the individual shares collectively.

The land contemplated for use as a park, is eight acres in extent and will be increased to about twelve acres by eliminating streets within the dedicated area, these streets being nonexistent and listed on the highway plan alone. A neighboring tract of 31 acres previously given by Mr. Glover will connect with the latest land offered and Fort Dupont park. It will also connect the previous donation with Massachusetts avenue.
